Background:

The State of Maharashtra is known to be one of the well-developed States in India but its Marathwada region is otherwise known for drought, agricultural distress, high number of farmer suicides, and large-scale seasonal migration owing to lack of adequate work in the villages. Other social issues like child marriage and domestic violence are also seen on large scale in this region. As a result, the women in this region are subjected to serious hardships and have to face numerous challenges. Normalisation of patriarchal mindset coupled with lack of awareness about the ill effects of these social evils, ignorance about laws / policies / schemes, are responsible for the poor situation of women in this region, thus hampering the goal of gender equity envisaged by the Constitution under Article 14.

On this backdrop, SWISSAID along with its partners namely, ILS Law College, Manavlok, Halo Medical Foundation and Gramin Mahila Vikas Sanstha decided to work at different fronts for addressing gender-based discrimination and violence, more particularly child marriage and domestic violence in Maharashtra and particularly focussing on Marathwada region. A project was accordingly conceptualised. The merits of the project were acknowledged by the European Commission and Swiss Agency for Development Cooperation by generously funding the project.

The major aim of the project is to sensitise the youth about gender discrimination, improve the awareness about the laws relating to domestic violence and child marriage and improve the quality of legal services and institutional support available to the victims / survivors of child marriage and domestic violence. This could be best achieved with the involvement of local mechanisms, especially in the form of legal aid centres established by law colleges as per the mandate of the Bar Council of India. These centres, composed of law professors and law students can help in creating a supportive environment for addressing the above-mentioned issues.
